Need Electrical Work Done?

Contact a licensed electrician! The smallest electrical mistake can result in a major loss, injury or damage. So, when a project calls for electrical work, hire a licensed technician.

To ensure that you are hiring a licensed electrician, here are some questions you should ask:

- Does the electrician have a permanent business address and telephone number?
- How long has the electrician's company been in business?
- Check the standing of your potential contractor:
 - o Queens: Visit www.nyc.gov or call 311
 - o Nassau: Call the Building Department of your Municipality
 - o Suffolk: Call the Department of Consumer Affairs
- Can your potential electrician provide references?

Electrical wiring is a serious business. The safety of your home or business should be foremost in your decision to always choose a licensed electrician.
