

Long Island Power Authority Transparency Plan

The Long Island Power Authority (“LIPA”) is committed to providing stakeholders with a transparent view of LIPA operations and decisions in service to LIPA’s 1.2 million customers on Long Island and in the Rockaways.

In October 2021, LIPA issued its first Transparency Plan describing its efforts to ensure that Board decisions are transparent, stakeholder feedback is encouraged, and LIPA’s activities are held to the highest ethical standards. LIPA continues to strengthen its transparency practices by enabling access to information about its operations, planning processes, and decision-making.

LIPA’s transparency efforts are reflected in the following activities:

Public Engagement in Governance:

LIPA has enhanced public participation in Board meetings through advanced digital engagement and virtual participation platforms. Remote commenting capabilities have widened opportunities for public involvement and made it easier for stakeholders to participate regardless of location.

LIPA broadcasts its Board meetings live and provides archived replays on its website, allowing stakeholders to review Board discussions and decisions at their convenience. These tools have made LIPA’s governance processes more accessible and transparent to the communities within LIPA’s service territory.

Additionally, LIPA has adopted uniform standards regarding the undergrounding of power lines, conducting public outreach when building major projects overhead, and providing communities with the choice to underground electrical infrastructure for visual community benefits at their own expense.

Robust Stakeholder Feedback Channels:

LIPA continues to deepen stakeholder engagement by strengthening the channels available for public input. Stakeholder involvement in significant initiatives, such as updates to resource planning and major infrastructure planning efforts, has been robust.

LIPA has expanded the public visibility of its Community Advisory Board (“CAB”). The CAB section of LIPA’s website provides information on CAB membership, meeting materials, and activities. This fosters inclusive decision-making that ensures community perspectives inform LIPA’s work.

Additional communication before board meetings, including targeted e-mail notifications, provide stakeholders with advanced access to agendas and voting information before Board action is taken. When major initiatives are undertaken, LIPA provides opportunities for public input through public comment sessions with both in-person and virtual options, as well as open comment periods for written submissions.

Transparent Access to Information and Ethics Reporting:

LIPA continues to improve public access to information about its operations and governance. The searchable database for Board materials, found on LIPA's website, provides stakeholders with easy access to agendas, presentations, and supporting materials associated with Board meetings and decision making.

LIPA's EthicsPoint service provides a clear and confidential way for employees, vendors, and members of the public to report concerns anonymously. LIPA's commitment to ethical governance is further demonstrated through the annual publication of our Code of Ethics and Conduct. Additionally, all procurement opportunities that are open to the public—whether issued as Requests for Proposals (“RFPs”) or Requests for Qualifications (“RFQs”), including those limited to prequalified or previously approved vendor pools—are publicly posted on LIPA's external website to ensure transparency and broad vendor awareness.

Staff also publishes a variety of quarterly and annual reports to the LIPA website, including Annual Budgets, Work Plans, and Service Provider Performance Metrics. LIPA also publishes fact sheets on topics of significant public interest. These factsheets have addressed issues such as LIPA's clean energy transition, pending tariff changes including the Customer Benefit Contribution Charge and the Time-of-Day Rate Initiative, the COVID-19 electric bill credit program, an analysis of privatizing the electric grid, and the Nassau County power plant tax settlements.

To further enhance accessibility, LIPA also produces video content explaining major initiatives and policy issues. These videos are published on LIPA's official LinkedIn company profile and shared through stakeholder communications.

LIPA is committed to consistently enhancing its transparency. In 2026, LIPA intends to implement the following initiatives aimed at enhancing transparency:

Continued Commitment to Transparency

LIPA remains committed to continuously improving transparency and stakeholder engagement. As the electric system evolves, and LIPA undertakes major initiatives related to reliability, affordability, and clean energy, LIPA will continue to expand access to information and provide meaningful opportunities for stakeholder input. Through clear communication, accessible public information, and strong governance practices, LIPA will continue working to ensure that customers, stakeholders, and policy makers have the information needed to understand and engage with the decisions that shape Long Island's electric system.
